

1

According to Benefit Criteria, the public expenditure may classify to:
Expenditure which confers common benefit on all citizens and
Expenditure confers special benefit on some per-sons

True

False

2

According to Functional Criteria, the public expenditure may classified to:
Primary expenditure, Secondary expenditure

True

False

3

According to the modern view, the nature and volume of public expenditure can have important effects on the economic life.

☒ True☐ False

4

According to The modern view, the state should be restricted to justice, police and arms

☐ True☒ False

5

According to the Revenue Criteria and Functional Criteria, building of a new public hospital may classified to: Expenditure without any return and Protective Functions.

True

False

6

According to the Revenue Criteria and Functional Criteria, Building new roads may classified to Expenditure With indirectly beneficial and Developmental Functions

True

False

7

According to the Revenue Criteria and Functional Criteria, the Free Education may classified to:
Expenditure with return and Developmental Functions

True

False

8

According to the Revenue Criteria and Functional Criteria, the Free Education may classified to
Expenditure With indirectly beneficial and Protective Functions

True

False

9

Classical school was opposed to increasing public expenditure

True

False

10

In a developed country, Public expenditure has multiplier effect on level of output and employment

True

False

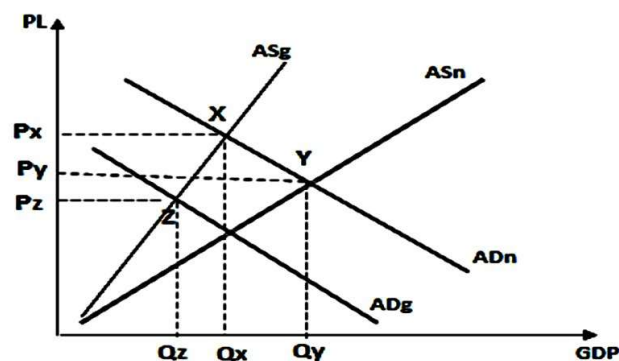

11

In developed country, government has a role to attainment of higher rate of growth with social justice

TrueFalse

From studying the effect of the capital and consumption expenditures, Use the Graph in answering the following:

The Aggregate demand will increase,

- A Only, when the government Increase the consumption Expenditures.
- B Only, when the government Increase the capital Expenditures.
- C Whether, when the government Increase consumption Expenditures or capital Expenditures.
- D When the government decreases the consumption Expenditures .

Next Question

In this case :

- A When the government increases the consumption expenditures, the equilibrium point is Y
- B When the government increases the capital expenditures, the equilibrium point is X
- C Capital Expenditures will be more positive effect on national income.
- D All the above is correct

According to Benefit Criteria, the public expenditure may be classified to:

- A Expenditure which confers common benefit on all citizens and Expenditure confers special benefit on some persons.
- B Expenditure without any direct return, Expenditure with indirectly beneficial, Expenditure with return.
- C Protective Expenditure, Developmental Expenditure, Recurrent Expenditure.
- D Primary expenditure, Secondary expenditure.
- E None of the above.

Next Question

From studying the effect of the capital and consumption expenditures, Use the Graph in answering the following:

When the government Increase the capital expenditures

- A The Aggregate demand will shift From ADg to ADn, and the Aggregate supply will shift From ASg to ASn
- B The Aggregate demand will shift From ADn to ADg
- C The Aggregate supply will shift From ASn to ASg
- D All the above is correct
- E None of the above

Finish